FROM THE FIELD: ON LAND AND UNDERWATER

*PAS does not hold membership meetings during the months of May through August. Our first meeting for 2016-2017 will be held Sept. 13. Again this year the meetings will be at the Bowden Building, 120 Church Street at UWF Historic Trust classroom.

There is plenty of activity going on in the field this summer. Even with low key publicity, public response for the "field lab" for the Luna Settlement site was overwhelming. We offered a chance for the public to rough sort artifacts recovered from the Luna site and it was a great success. It is always great to see and hear from so many enthusiastic people in our area. Thanks for the help!

At the Luna Settlement site, the UWF shovel testing crew has completed over 800 shovel tests on private properties. The property owners could not be any nicer and the neighborhood has been very supportive. Artifacts recovered include Luna associated artifacts such as 16th century Spanish ceramics, Aztec Indian ceramics and spindle whorls, carret-headed nails (horseshoe nails) and other wrought nails as well as many sherds of Native American ceramics dating from the Woodland to the Mississippian time periods.

Two groups of UWF field school students are working on the settlement site. One group has been there since May investigating the Native Americans that lived in the area. They also plan to do shovel testing at the site of a French Huguenot settlement during the last 2 weeks of field school. This last group of students is spending time working 5 weeks on land and 5 weeks underwater this summer.

The underwater team of field school students has continued excavations on the Emanuel Point II shipwreck sponsored by Florida Division of Historical Resources' Special Category. Students have also used the remote sensing equipment to look for more wrecks nearby. It is exciting to learn that another shipwreck as well as other anomalies that warrant investigation have been located by remote sensing equipment. The present permit must be amended before they can begin excavations in the new area. Is this another Luna shipwreck??? Stay tuned for more on this one!

Look on the web sites and blogs of all of these groups for up to date information.

UWF SUMMER “FIELD LAB” IS A HUGE SUCCESS!

During the UWF Field School 2016 excavations at the Luna Settlement site, the UWF lab operating at the field house on site was open to the public nine Tuesdays and Thursdays during June and July. Public response for the “field lab” was overwhelming and it was a great success! About 80 people took advantage of the chance to rough sort artifacts recovered from the Luna site during the field work in June and July. Rough sorting involves cleaning the dirt from artifacts and sorting them into piles of like material. These groups of artifacts are carefully put into labeled bags for further analysis by the trained UWF lab workers. The volunteers included middle school students, teachers, workers who took a day off, folks on vacation and retirees from the Pensacola area and Gulf Breeze as well as Crestview and Bonifay. The volunteers learned that everything about archaeology is not exciting, but each bag can include something amazing. Artifacts seen during the rough sorting sessions included 16th century Spanish ceramics such as early olive jar and majolica fragments, wrought nails and other metal objects yet to be identified. In addition British artifacts from the 18th century and many Native American ceramics and stone artifacts were processed. Since the site has been occupied for several thousand years,
